

Short Takes By George McClellan

Losing our Freedoms

It is now abundantly clear that our President, you know, the one with the teleprompter, has a single vision in mind for the future of America and it's not freedom and prosperity. He will stop at nothing to socialize us and almost nothing will get in his way to accomplish the goals of the people who put him in office. They want America to be on the same level as the African governmental disaster, Zimbabwe.

America can be easily stimulated into producing jobs, national product, health and happiness for all, by known simple and proven economic methods of lower taxes, to encourage small business, getting government out of microscopically controlling our lives and living up to the standards enumerated in our US Constitution.

His plan is to keep unemployment high. People who are not earning an income will sooner or later be forced to seek handouts from the government including food stamps, welfare, in its various forms, and health care. And, like the "Tar Baby" in the Uncle Remus tale, we will be stuck. Our limited educated population, who know nothing of American history but everything about American Idol, are the governments main targets. Going there is to lose our God given freedoms. Going there freely, without a fight, is criminal. Continuing to allow our children's educations to be in the hands of liberals is even more criminal.

We have had three successful terrorist attacks, here in America, during his first term alone: the Arkansas military recruiting station shooting, the Ft. Hood, Texas shooting and the Christmas Day attempt to blow up an airliner over Detroit. Obama's reaction is to speak platitudes and nonsense and relegate the events to mere violations of penal codes instead of jihadist acts of war. When he does speak, days after an event has happened, he displays arrogance toward Americans concerns by telling us "not to jump to conclusions", and more importantly, by not taking any decisive action to correct matters, except blaming Bush, the enemy will be emboldened to attack us again. He surrounds himself with idiots like "the system works", Napolitano; and his National Security Advisor, John Brennan, who has been doing damage control on the major news networks and who apparently knows as little about terrorism as he does about the dangers of Islam. Brennan has been a career "yes" man.

Here is what is going to happen: the groping fingers of functionaries in TSA uniforms, will reduce us further to the level of prodded cattle herded up a chute into a cattle plane. This extended loss of our freedoms will serve to make us even more susceptible to further outrages in the future. We will be unable to enter a building, a mall or a theater without being subjected to full body searches. And we will meekly let it happen. We will come to compliantly exchange our freedom for security. Jihadist won't be flying airplanes into American buildings any more. They won't need to. Just a shooting here, a bombing in a mall or theater there, a massive freeway accident at rush hour. You can figure it out. We know what to do, now! Let's do it!
