

Immigration and Voting

"One of the penalties for refusing to participate in politics is that you end up being governed by your inferiors"...Plato

The illegal immigration issue is now about to explode upon us. The State of Arizona had the "gravitas" to light the fuse with its direct action, anti-illegal immigration enforcement law, doing what the Federal government has refused to do, protect its borders. The latino community is allegedly outraged, protesting on the streets and making threats. But don't worry! Most, if not all, of the protesters are probably legal immigrants firmly in the grasp of their masters, the National Socialist Democrat Workers Party. Any illegal stupid enough to hang around and protest in full view on the streets, would be sucked up like dust balls under a bed and sent packing. No, instead, they are quietly packing up and moving out exactly as the law intended. So, what's the problem? The Immigration and Customs Enforcement people (ICE) last week scooped up 300 illegals in some Arizona plant whose positions were immediately filled by jobless Americans.

So, again, what's the problem? The problem is amnesty for illegals. It is the mechanism by which the the National Socialist Democrat Workers Party intends to refill their dwindling voter base. So, what's the solution? How about neutralizing the voter base. For example, if one is not on the local county's jury selection rolls, they should have no right to vote. If one receives any form of state assistance, (welfare, supplemental income, etc.) then they have no right to vote until such time as they can get off the dole. If they cannot vote, then their presence in any community, even if illegal, would make little difference.

The Achilles heel of any representative form of government is the abuse of the right to vote. When the voter rolls get to the 50-50 point between the producers and the takers, then representative government becomes, in actuality, and by definition, a real democracy where the majority rules. In other words, when non producers have the ability to freely vote, and discover they can vote themselves other peoples' money, by the power of numbers, then it's all over for America and it's the National Socialist Democrat Workers Party that is pushing this very agenda. "Everyone has the right to vote" they argue. "It's only fair" they say, and because of "political correctness" and charges of "racism" screamed at every opposing voice, the rest of us quietly gave in and accepted the left's premise that voting is a right for all people regardless of their legal status. It's time our voting laws were reevaluated for common sense and for our self protection.

It is no thanks to the silly philosophy of "Compassionate Conservatism" and those who promoted it like George W. Bush and John McCain, Johnny Isakson and Saxby Chambliss, that the National Socialist Democrat Workers Party, still cling to the notion that amnesty is a bipartisan effort and the efforts by politicians to circumvent the laws in order to satisfy some notion of "fairness" has led to this impasse. The people want a fence. Where is it? American citizens near the border with Mexico expect their government to protect them from armed marauding gangs of Mexican criminals and Mexican military forces crossing our borders to commit their depredations against American citizens, even of latino origin. All legal Americans are entitled to the protection of our government, not the policy of ignoring the growing, festering security problem of open borders, drugs, murder, kidnappings and, dare I say, an easy entry for Islamic Jihadist's as well. Our politicians have much to answer for. Let's get rid of them! (4/30/10) ###
