

From The Conservative Side - America's Bleak Future

By George McClellan

It would appear that the Socialist-Democrats are in disarray over the health care issue they are trying to foist on an increasingly unwilling American electorate. Do not be fooled! The unexpected ferocity of the citizens who attended the Town Hall debacles that greeted them during the August recess, has caused them to reconsider their plan of action. It will all be a sleight of hand maneuver, like a magic trick. "Okay", they say, "the public option is off the table." So we relax our guard a bit and then suddenly, the end run. They will pass some form of government health care bill even with only Democrats votes and Obama will sign it into law. Knowing that they have lost a large voter bloc with their scheme, the question for them is: how do they make it up? The answer is waiting in the wings. Obama will suddenly legalize the twelve million or so illegals now in our country through amnesty, and suddenly the gaping void created by the lost voters who formerly saw Obama for what he is, will be filled with non Americans each waiting for the government to take care of them.

The Socialist plans for America's change have long been in the works. For your own education, view the following web sites: CPUSA, SPUSA and DSAUSA. Front groups for these organizations are: America Coming Together, Joint Victory Campaign 2004, Media Fund, Service Employees International Union, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, MoveOn.org, New Democrat Network, Sierra Club, EMILY's List, AFL-CIO, ACLU and The League of Conservation Voters among others.

The Obama campaign spent nearly one billion dollars to achieve the presidency, a job that only pays $400,000 a year. Who would possibly spend that much money for such a lousy paying job if they didn't expect really big things in return? Obama has remained the non-transparent President. We still know little or nothing about him except what he himself has released. We know he is a gifted speaker, with his teleprompter at hand, and a lousy one without it. Just based upon his personal connections with known radicals, Obama would never, ever have qualified for a security clearance at any level of government, yet, now he has taken into his hands the vetting of the folks he has hired to surround him in the White House as his Commissars. People who once had the authority to deny a security clearance to an applicant who failed to meet the basic elements of trustworthiness, must be, like the rest of America, stunned by the actions of this radical President and his cronies.

Obama, however, suffers the same urges as other politicians, the desire to get re-elected! He must always keep an eye on those who elected him and not go out of his way to alienate them. But too, he is being pushed by the far left radical nut cases, who see this period as probably their best opportunity to emasculate America from its founding principals and turn its citizens into obedient, non-thinking servants of the state, with them in charge of course. He surrounds himself with his own "experts" on National Security with folks from the Southern Poverty Law Center, and Julian Bond, current chair of the NAACP. Van Jones, Obama's radical black "Green" Commissar, has only today, given up his post due to his radical statements. Political Correctness can cut both ways it seems. However, because of the "experts" with which he has surrounded himself organizations like Homeland Security now label those of us who could and did qualify for a security clearance, as "Right-wing extremists and potential domestic terrorists.

These people are laying the foundation for a civil war here in America. An official of The Southern Poverty Law Center said: "every element is in place for a perfect storm" by which he meant home grown extremism. Even a British left wing reporter, Rupert Cornwell, writing for the 'Independent', assaulted Americans who speak out against Obama's global agenda warning of "coming civil unrest" and cites as his authority, a report of the Southern Poverty Law Center. Cornwell further stated: "For the first time, the Federal government is run by a black man", which pretty much defines and focuses the issue, doesn't it?

Not content, Cornwell then calls our military a "breeding ground of the far right...sending home veterans in vast numbers", presumably to fill the ranks of trained domestic terrorists. and finally, the leftist Cornwell said: "So might not elements even further to the right enter the fray --"sovereign citizens" who believe they are above the law, or the new "Oath Keepers" movement, of soldiers and police officers past and present, who believe their duty is to the constitution, not to elected politicians? Perhaps the healthcare rallies and the Southern Poverty Law Center report were no coincidence, after all."

Folks, we are being set up to be blamed for the failure of Obama's programs and look out for the next three years. The first rule of self defense is: You must be paranoid, they are out to get you!
