

“Hope” Is Not A Policy...

So, what's new? Obama's (peace be upon him) continuing drumbeat that 'Bush made me do it' is really getting old. He continually says, over and over again, that he inherited an economic mess, although in fact, a Democratic Congress during Bush's last two years was responsible. So, after nearly three years of inept leadership, the economic mess hasn't improved but has only gotten worse, as has our social standards. This stands as clear evidence that the President is unqualified to solve the economic mess he inherited, least of all to continue in the office he now holds.

However, let's not be too hasty here. Obama (peace be upon him) is doing exactly what he said he would do, "I Hope you will help me fundamentally change America". America's economic fate has been pre-destined by the Progressives, of which our President is their current prophet, for over fifty years. Change has been accomplished through stealth attacks over those years to the main fabric of Americanism, individual responsibility, creativity, entrepreneurship, public education, self risk and religion. Progressives find "risk and religion" to be an unacceptable societal norms because they exclude those who can't or won't stand the risk for their own advancement, and don't want some religious moralist's reminding them that they are losers. Now, listening to some of the messages coming out of many pulpits, one can only conclude that many of the church leaders have been suborned or stealthily replaced by Progressives.

Look how far we have come. We once counted upon the comfort of our religion for our moral support. That is under attack by Progressives with onerous laws and public denigration. Public prayers are forbidden as unconstitutional (this false premise must be attacked) and now, even small insignificant cities are telling folks they cannot hold home bible studies. How far has the arm of the police state now reached? We now have intrusive agencies like the TSA, the EPA, DoE (Education), all with their own police forces trying to enforce Progressive rules designed to bury us under the weight of officious bureaucracy, enforced by the threat of fines and/or imprisonment.

Not only is it now more than acceptable to be an open, practicing homosexual but now our military has, by law, been infected with the disease of sexual deviancy. Repealing Don't ask, Don't Tell, has spelled the sure doom of our military. Homosexuals in positions of authority will promote their own while others will be punished for not being diverse or understanding of the weakness and fallacies of others. Voluntary enlistments will decline and professional soldiers, dedicated to a strong America, will start early retirements or not re-enlist. The chemistry of reactive violence is brewing. It is not right!

America is staggering under the malaise of unemployment. If it were not for the unaffordable extension of unemployment benefits, on and on seemingly forever, we would be in a full fledged Depression, soup lines and all. Nothing our Chief Office Holder has done has alleviated the problems. He has not intended too. His aim is to bring America to its knees and on that he is succeeding. Obama (peace be upon him) hates America and all it stands for. Our defenses are down, the Islamic enemy is moving in and under the threat of being considered racist or Islamophobic or simply politically incorrect, we are powerless to defend ourselves. The inmates are running the institutions. Hopefully, in another year we can start putting some of them in prison. Remember, freedom is the goal, the Constitution is the way. Go get 'em!
