

Moving Fast

Politically, things are moving so fast it's hard to keep up with all the changes and governmental outrages taking place. One now has to be selective in choosing just where to focus ones attention. Do we examine our corrupt politicians, the corrupt CEO's of dysfunctional "Green" energy companies and financial Institutions, the corrupt cronies of the President like the CEO of General Electric Co. moving his operations to China without a word of complaint from the NLRB, or our ineffective politicians who do nothing to stop the destruction?

The America destroying machine that is the Democrat Party is in full self-defense mode and they are moving as fast as they can to try to implement their promised "Fundamental Changes" to America because they see that their window of opportunity quickly closing on them. They realize too they can no longer rely on the oratorical skills of the Impostor in Chief's teleprompter to spin out their socialist plans for America's re-distributive economy.

Energy and minerals is a case in point. Marita Noon, Executive Director of Energy Makes America Great, wrote in Townhall of the plight of the unemployed citizens of Nevada who could be put to work immediately in the mining area to develop gold, silver, tungsten and rare earth deposits but are hampered by the Dept. of the Interior and the Forest Service, now in the hands of environmentalists, who forbid new roads in Government areas for any economic development. Of course, the 10th US Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the environmentalists. Ah, but there was a solution for one company wanting to extract tungsten from Montana's Finley Basin: Yes, they can drill (their site is 200 yards from an existing road) but the drill sites can only be cleared with hand tools. The drilling equipment and the fuel to run them then can only be transported to the site by pack mules and, the mules must be fed only with 'certified' weed free hay. Finally, the drill site and trail reclamation must be done using only hand tools. Wasn't this the way it was done in the 1800's? We're sure moving fast, aren't we?

Naturally, America's world competitiveness is going out the window. But, that is the plan. Owners and developers and even our "conservative" politicians respond with nonsense like: 'they simply don't understand the decisions they are making are harming our economy!' The hell they don't! They understand all too well what they are doing. They are making America a socialist state of wealth re-distribution and equal misery for all.

For our very survival we must change our mind set and agree that the Obama (peace be upon him) is not simply misguided, that his programs for jobs is simply another genuine attempt to get America moving again. No, no, no! What falls from his mouth are lies after lies after lies and that his wealth redistribution schemes have thus far has only benefited unions, his contributing cronies and CEO's of failed alternative energy companies.

What a scam we've been fed. The TEA Party people saw this early on. The "Occupy Wall Street" people, cretins that they are, are beginning to recognize the dangers but most of them have been convinced that its the job providers who are at fault. That's a result of their government education. Here's a clue. I quote John P. Holdren, the administration's top advisor on Science and technology: "A massive campaign must be launched to restore a high-quality environment in North America and to de-develop the United States...Resources and energy must be diverted from frivolous and wasteful uses in overdeveloped countries to filling the genuine needs of underdeveloped countries. This effort must be largely political," Freedom is the goal, the Constitution is the way. Go get 'em! (31 Oct 11)
