

From the Conservative Side

By George McClellan...The Fifth Columnists Among Us

"Those who hammer their guns into plows will plow for the few who do not"...Thomas Jefferson.

The conservative rally against the nomination of liberal Republican Dede Scozzafava as Republican candidate for the recently contested upstate New York Congressional seat, highlighted an important yet little recognized phenomena suspected but not clearly understood by most Americans. We see evidence of this all around us and yet, individually, we don't yet know what to do or what to do about it. The singular event highlighted by the Scozzafava issue was the awakening of conservative "awareness". It has come to life in the TEA Party's around the country and the Town Hall confrontations. If Scozzafava is a Republican why does she think and vote like an ultra far-left wing radical liberal, and how can that be good for America? If she was a true republican why did she throw her support behind the Democrat candidate? I was not unhappy that she quit. It's a start!

There is a game going on here but we don't know how to play it! What game you may ask? Well, it's to realize and accept that we have long been infiltrated by liberal elite fifth columnists under a strategy promulgated in the 1960's by two characters named Cloward and Piven (Google: Cloward-Piven). The game, for us, is to identify exactly who the fifth columnists among us are, learn how far along they have proceeded in successfully undermining our America (e.g. our schools) and figure out what we can do to reverse the damages already done. Scozzafava is a simple manifestation of that strategy; a leftist liberal posing as a "moderate republican"; a fifth columnist! Their program is designed to slowly neutralize conservatism by turning the Republican Party into a copy of the Democrat Party; Democrat-Lite if you will. So, no matter who wins in the end, through the C-P strategy, socialism will still prevail and we suddenly find ourselves forever burdened under the heavy foot of a socialist government. And, of course, to help defray the costs of lifting the yoke of Capitalist oppression from our puny shoulders our salvation, which lies only at the hands of liberal elites, will be paid for by a slight increase in our tax burden.

Because Scozzafava said she was a Republican doesn't make it so; she clearly didn't speak or behave like one. Neither does President Obama speak nor behave like an American. His actions, plus his public utterances, especially his apologetic denigration of America's historical achievements, alone cast suspicions on the true nature of his Americanism. When he speaks, I think I'm listening to a foreigner who actually hates America. Because he say's he is an American doesn't really make it so. He don't talk like one and he don't act like one.

The same must be said of US Army Major Nidal Hasan, an American born Muslim of Arab descent, charged with fourteen premeditated counts of murder for his despicable actions at Fort Hood, Texas. Because he was a Doctor, and a field grade army officer (Major) alone, doesn't make him an American. Only his place of birth does, but that's it.

By the way, did you know that Major Hasan is identified as an advisor to President-Elect Obama's Homeland Security Team. (For confirmation, see: www.gwumc.edu and look for "Proceedings Report 05-19-09" PDF. He will be found on page 29 of the Homeland Security Institute). So much for "Let's not jump to conclusions".

But the most formidable fifth columnist group among us is to be found in the ranks of the Muslim community, the same group that spawned the killer, Major Hasan, among others. Unlike the steady, slow efforts of America's early socialists who have patiently wormed their way into the fabric of our systems of education, labor and law, the Muslims are clubbing their way in; they are using our self imposed doctrine of "political correctness" as the weapon to beat us into recognizing their right to exist here as a legitimate religion and, with that weapon, also strive to impose upon us their social ideals that are neither rational nor practicable and definitely are inimical to the best interests of the United States. So, if a devout Muslim, a US soldier no less, who has taken a military oath to protect and defend the US Constitution, kills other soldiers because he believes the Koran allows it, then we can be sure to expect a continuation of that effort and worse, we can expect our leaders to continue warning us not to "jump to conclusions" or think in terms of stereotypes. America's apologists will surely end up killing us.

Of course I do not mean to imply that all Muslims here in America will be willing to strap on a bomb harness and enter an office building, store or train station and thereby martyr themselves by taking more American lives with them. But, some will! Evidence does exist, of course, that some young muslims are willing to face being murdered at the hands of their family's for abandoning Islam and accepting Christ or worse, practicing the decadent western lifestyle. Even in Islamic Iran, a significant portion of that population resists, with their lives, Islamic fundamentalism, yet, we don't.

But, thanks to Major Hasan, Americans, in all walks of life and of all political persuasions, can no longer trust anybody that represents the Islamic community. Major Hasan has made it absolutely clear that, since 9/11, the front line of the "War on Terrorism" has now returned from the rugged terrain of Afghanistan and the burning sands of Iraq back to Main Street USA.

If we recognize that the teachings of Islam are barbaric at their core because it embraces such odious tenets as slavery, women as chattel, and violence against "non-believers" as a means of the conversion of "infidels" to Islam, and if we accept that its philosophy is totally incompatible with the philosophy of Western Democracy, then we must conclude that these people definitely do not belong here, that they have no legitimate reason to be here, and we, as a nation, do not need them here. They are the enemy and they should be removed. Diversity is not an option!

Sadly, we cannot expect our current political leaders to protect us. Elected officials of both parties have morphed into clones of Chinese Mandarins no longer accountable to the public they are supposed to serve but positioned only to be served with re-election as their only goal. This is accomplished by the philosophy of "political correctness" which permits, indeed will encourage, further Islamic terroristic atrocities on our soil and, in consequence of our appeasement, continue the hemorrhage of our wealth to oil rich Arab regimes who happily, like the urban narcotic dealer, will continue to inject the fuel oil of dependence into our national veins.

Elections count. Let's get into the fight! (18 November 2009)
